

SAINT JAMES CATHOLIC CHURCH

“be doers of the word not hearers only.....” James 1:22

THIRD SUNDAY OF LENT

MARCH 7 & 8, 2026

“A woman of Samaria came to draw water. Jesus said to her, ‘Give me a drink.’

The Samaritan woman said to Him, ‘How can you, a Jew, ask me, a Samaritan woman, for a drink?’

Jesus answered and said to her, ‘If you knew the gift of God and who is saying to you, ‘Give me a drink,’ you would have asked Him and He would have given you living water.’

‘Everyone who drinks this water will be thirsty again; but whoever drinks the water I shall give will never thirst; the water I shall give will become in him a spring of water welling up to eternal life.’

The woman said to Him, ‘Sir, give me this water, so that I may not be thirsty or have to keep coming here to draw water.’”

John 4:4-15

ARCHBISHOP SAMUEL J. AQUILA

blesses and greets the faithful at the end of a Mass of Thanksgiving at Queen of Peace Parish.

“Being Christian does not mean we will not face temptations. I can assure you that, 50 years as a priest and almost 25 as a bishop, I am still tempted,” the archbishop said.

He explained that, unlike Adam and Eve, Jesus overcame the evil one by relying on the Word of God, showing us how we must respond in times of trial.

“Adam and Eve listened more to the Devil than to God. They did not put the Word of God first in their lives. That is why it is so important that each of you come to love the Word of God, place your faith in it and trust that it will be fulfilled,” he explained.

He also noted that today we continue to be tempted by power, money, wealth and other worldly things. Yet only Christ can give us true joy and strength.

“Sometimes we foolishly think that all those things will make us happy. But all of that will pass,” he explained. “Everything you have one day will pass away. When you die, there will not be a U-Haul truck behind your hearse carrying all your belongings.”

The archbishop concluded his homily by encouraging the faithful to love Scripture, not to put God to the test, to go to Confession when they fall into temptation and, above all, to use this season of Lent for deeper conversion and a closer relationship with Christ, trusting that God is always with us.

“Open your hearts to these readings, meditate on them within and discern where, in the next six weeks, the Lord is calling you to a deeper conversion,” he said. “And ask for a greater love for the Word of God. Remember the Word: ‘One does not live by bread alone, but by every word that comes forth from the mouth of God.’”

A Message of Gratitude

At the end of the Eucharistic celebration, the archbishop addressed those present to express his heartfelt gratitude to the Hispanic community, highlighting their faith, devotion and the affection with which they have accompanied him throughout his ministry.

“It has been a great joy to serve the Hispanic community over the last thirteen and a half years. I have been deeply moved by your devotion, faith and love for Our Lady of Guadalupe,” he said with emotion. “I am grateful to Bishop Rodríguez, our Hispanic priests, deacons, religious and those who serve in the various movements that have brought you closer to Jesus, to the Church and to Our Lady.

“My prayer at the beginning of my ministry as archbishop, entrusting it to the protection of Our Lady of Guadalupe, has been fulfilled far beyond anything I could have imagined,” he added.

It is by the grace of the Lord — to whom we must remain close, like branches to the Vine (John 15) — that Archbishop Aquila has received every gift throughout his 13 years of ministry in the Archdiocese of Denver.

“When we remain united to the Vine, Jesus Christ, and abide in him, we bear much fruit. It is his work and his fruit when we keep him first in our lives,” he explained.

He also took the opportunity to ask the community to welcome Archbishop-designate James Golka with joy and openness.

“I pray, dear brothers and sisters, that as we receive our archbishop, Archbishop Golka, our love for Jesus, for our Blessed Mother, for the Church and for the sacraments may continue to grow and deepen for the glory of the Father,” he said.
