

SAINT JAMES CATHOLIC CHURCH

"be doers of the word not hearers only....." James 1:22

FOURTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

JULY 4 & 5, 2026

"Come to me,
all you who labor
and are burdened,
and I will give you rest.
Take my yoke
upon you and
learn from me,
for I am meek
and humble of heart;
and you will find
rest for yourselves.
For my yoke is easy,
and my burden light."
Matthew 11:29-30

ARCHBISHOP JAMES GOLKA RECEIVES THE PALLIUM

Archbishop Golka
will receive the pallium
from Pope Leo XIV
on June 29, 2026.

WHAT IS A PALLIUM?

The word itself comes from the Latin for mantle or cloak. Worn by metropolitan archbishops — that is, archbishops responsible for oversight (not governance) over a province or region of dioceses — the pallium is a sort of collar. It's worn over the chasuble, the outermost poncho-like vestment that all priests wear while celebrating Mass, around the shoulders.

It's white with six black crosses, in a circular shape, two inches wide, with two 12-inch-long bands extending down the front and back. At the end of those bands is a black cap. Crosses on the back, front and left shoulder have a pin, called a spinula, Latin for small spine or thorn.

The pallium must be requested by the new metropolitan archbishop at the time of his appointment or installation. When a metropolitan archbishop is transferred, he is no longer permitted to use his pallium; if he is transferred to a new metropolitan archdiocese, he may request a new one for his new role.

THE HISTORY OF THE PALLIUM

The origin of the liturgical vestment is a bit murky, with some claiming Roman or Greek origins.

Either way, the pallium, used in a secular Roman sense, dates back at least to Tertullian and St. Justin Martyr in the ancient Church. Tertullian associated the garment with Jesus, and St. Justin was said to have been wearing one when he was martyred in 165 AD.

The pallium was commonly bestowed upon a new metropolitan archbishop during the rite of installation, when he took possession of his archdiocese. The papal nuncio, the pope's representative in a particular country, would confer the liturgical vestment in the archdiocese's cathedral during that celebration.

Around 43 years ago, though, Pope St. John Paul II moved that conferral from the rite of installation, opting instead to bestow the pallium on archbishops himself, on the Solemnity of Sts. Peter and Paul, two of the Church's greatest apostles and evangelists. In 2015, Pope Francis returned the practice to local Churches and papal nuncios. In 2025, Pope Leo XIV reinstituted the practice of coming to Rome to receive the vestment.

In 2012, then-Archbishop-designate Samuel J. Aquila received his pallium alongside Archbishop Charles Chaput, newly transferred from Denver to the Archdiocese of Philadelphia, from Pope Benedict XVI. This came a few weeks before his installation as the Archbishop of Denver on July 18, 2012.
