According to the Catechism of the Catholic Church:

Baptism is the foundation of the Christian life, the "gateway to life in the Spirit," and the door to the other sacraments (1213) United States Conference of Catholic Bishops.The term comes from the Greek baptizein, meaning "to plunge" or "immerse," symbolizing burial into Christ's death and rising to new life as a "new creature" (1214).Effects of BaptismBaptism has profound spiritual effects. It purifies from all sins, including original and personal sins, and removes all punishment for sin. While temporal consequences of sin, such as suffering and concupiscence, remain, the baptized person is empowered to resist sin through grace. Baptism makes the neophyte a "new creature," an adopted child of God, a member of Christ, and a temple of the Holy Spirit. It imparts sanctifying grace, enabling belief, hope, and love, and grants the gifts of the Holy Spirit to guide moral and spiritual growth.

ARCHBISHOP GOLKA, ARCHBISHOP EMERITUS AQUILA AND BISHOP RODRIGUEZ MEET POPE LEO XIV

While in Rome for the pilgrimage and Pallium Mass, Denver Archbishop James Golka, Archbishop Emeritus Samuel J. Aquila, and Denver Auxiliary Bishop Jorge Rodríguez, together with John Magee, archdiocesan chancellor, and Deacon Doug Flinn, archdiocesan general counsel, had the opportunity to sit down with the Holy Father.

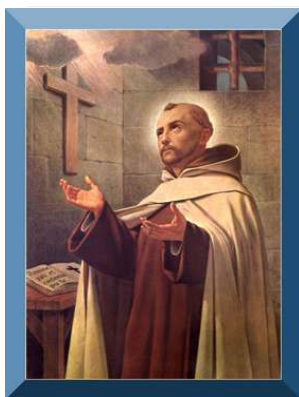

The meeting came only one day after the Pallium Mass, when Pope Leo conferred the special vestment, worn only by metropolitan archbishops, on Denver's new shepherd. In their seconds-long interaction that day, the Holy Father encouraged Archbishop Golka in their native language — a breath of fresh air in such a surreal, once-in-a-lifetime moment!

During their joyful, blessed meeting, the Holy Father and the archdiocesan delegation discussed the Church in Northern Colorado and the ways that God has been and continues to move in our parishes, schools, ministries and communities. Pope Leo was interested in hearing of the Archdiocese of Denver's vitality and passion for preaching the Gospel.

The archdiocesan delegation described the meeting as never feeling rushed or "just another audience." Through their time with the Holy Father, it was eminently clear to them that Pope Leo is a gracious, considerate and compassionate pastor, asking good questions and communicating well.

As the meeting came to a close, Pope Leo and Denver's shepherds assured each other of their prayers.
